LONDON (AP) — John Lennon wrote vitriolic comments about fellow-Beatle Paul McCartney in a picture biography of the famed pop group, providing new evidence of the tensions between them, the Observer said Sunday.

The newspaper said Lennon wrote alongside one photograph of the group: "Staged photo pretending to be the fab four: all waiting stoned for it to be over." On a photo of the Beatles sporting moustaches, the Observer said Lennon wrote: "Paul started this moustache business because he'd split his lip on a 'stoned' moped ride — purely functional, really."

On one McCartney photo, Lennon scribbled the words, "I'm always perfect" as coming from McCartney's mouth. He drew a Hitler-style moustache on another photo of McCartney.

In an entry noting McCartney's marriage to Linda Eastman, Lennon crossed out "wedding" and wrote "funeral," the Observer said.

The Observer said that on an entry dated June 1968 that read "Paul to Hollywood," Lennon added: "Cuts Yoko and John out of film!"

On one page, the newspaper said, Lennon wrote in big letters: "This book is so prejudiced against John (and) Yoko that I want to know who put it together and fire them."

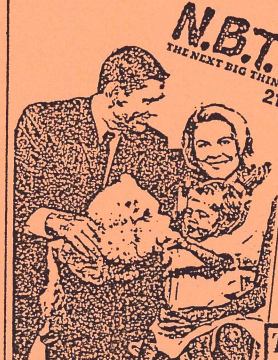

The Observer quoted Hilary Kay of Sotheby's, which is auctioning the book, as saying it was expected to fetch $20,000 to $30,000 (Canadian).

Threat in rhyme brings $400 fine

Reuter WINNIPEG — A Winnipeg man who sent a death threat in rhyme has been fined $400 (US) by a poetic Canadian judge.

In an assault case, Kevin Kirby pleaded guilty to a charge of uttering threats after he sent a letter to a man saying: "Blood is red, my gun is blue, John Lennon is dead and so are you."

Justice Sidney Schwartz agreed the threat was a joke that went too far. Imposing the fine, he told Kirby: "I can say to you, if you did not receive a fine, in jail you would pine. No fun, no wine, on bread and water you would dine."
